

Monitoring and Evaluation Policy & Procedures

1. Outcomes

We have a set of outcomes that have largely been in use since 2010 and give a clear picture of the difference the service can make:

- For service users: More friends, improved happiness/mental wellbeing, physical wellbeing, confidence, self-esteem and lifeskills.
- For carers: Improved wellbeing, more opportunities to enjoy a life outside of their caring role and greater sustainability of that role.
- For volunteers: Increased learning disabilities awareness and confidence in forming relationships with people with learning disabilities.

2. Monitoring at Branch level

- Monitoring at branch level ensures links and groups are running smoothly and also produces evaluation material:
 - ❖ Service user reviews annually
 - ❖ Volunteer supervision 6-monthly
 - ❖ Group evaluation workshops for service users, carers and volunteers.
 - ❖ Evaluations by external, usually local, consultants & tutors.
 - ❖ Videos.
 - ❖ Photoreports.
 - ❖ Case studies
 - ❖ Scrapbooks
- Some material provides direct evidence of the outcomes we aim for, but some is more general.
- Where possible we ask about the continuing need for our service, potential developments and additional outcomes.

3. Organisation-wide evaluation

- Since 1998, we have carried out in-depth three-yearly evaluations of the whole service. Until 2010 evaluations were carried out by external consultants such as Befriending Networks. However in 2013 we moved to self-evaluation.
- The evaluation includes written questionnaires for service users, carers and volunteers and co-ordinated evaluation workshops across the four branches. Questionnaires and workshops also include a consultation element
- It produces qualitative and quantitative data about outcome levels which can be compared to previous evaluations, and the consultation results are used for future planning.

- Survey forms used in the three-yearly evaluation are attached as an Appendix
- Formal Evaluation Plans for the Adult Project and the Children & Young People’s Project, are also attached.

4. Factors affecting evidence gathering

- Our service users often have very limited communication, which can present problems in gathering information. However our service aims are relatively simple and we can draw on the observations of carers and volunteers, who are in an excellent position to see the difference made.
- Whilst volunteer and carer outcomes can be gathered fairly easily, questions for service users need to use proxies (in a similar way to the Warwick-Edinburgh Wellbeing Scale). We ask questions linked to the outcomes, for example, if service users “make friends easily” or if they are “happy with their life” and if Interest Link has helped with this.
- We aim to provide lifelong support, and our 1:1 links in particular focus on low-intensity sustainable relationships, many of which last at least 5 years. As a result the frequency of our formal questionnaires is often lower than other befriending projects.

5. Equalities monitoring

- We currently collect information on gender, age and disability through our registration and application forms.
- We do not currently collect information on sexuality, religion and ethnicity, but this is kept under review.
